I played this for about 20 minutes on my YouTube channel and found it to be somewhat repetitive after the first few iterations of levels. I think combining the features that new levels offer with each other would be a good start, but this is still a good way to pass the time

Gameplay here: https:\/\www.youtube.com/watch?v=ymL eRw7mZg&t=21s. The 1:1 port with mobile version making the desktop version incredibly painful to use - extra clicks for virtually every single user action makes the game very painful and slow to play compared to its predecessors!

For this reason alone I've stopped playing it, despite the slickness of the UI and whatever improvements there may be.. Game concept is good the sport is awsome. Graphics need some wark as well as the controller support. My Xbox controller does not work but my Steam controller does. The price is right at 5 bucks. Like the sport the moves are important to master. Good game but not for all. If you like the sport it is a great addition to your library.. IT's a good time waster. The customization is lacking.. Very Funny story, has more than one ending. I love it well worth the money. Highly recomend.. Blood Money: Cold War Edition!

Personally, I've not had any issues with the game. It plays just like old Hitman titles and supports the 360 controller. Great fun so far going for Ghost ratings.

Very cute and lovingly made game, kind of child-appropriate Stardew Valley (farm, meet visitors with quests and trade goods, build your base up from a tent to a farm with kitchen, alchemy laboratory, barn with critters etc, fight invading critters) - but definitely good enough for adults.

Beautiful art and charming personalities, easy to be dragged in except ... for the really odd and inconsistent keyboard controls. Especially the fishing minigame is very frustrating if not downright impossible I would say. Overall the good things weight heavier for me by far than the bad things and I've enjoyed my time so far quite thoroughly. But I do hope the controls get updated to PC standards with mouse focus!. The best luxor game out of the series. If you like games like luxor, don't pass up on this gem!. I love the simplicity of this game! Really well designed and probably even more fun on an iPad or iPhone!

Great game!!

Here is a quick video review of the game so you can see for yourself!!

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=c17oVj44oY8. NOTE: I only recommend this game as amusing distraction. The SSI games Great Naval Battles and Figthing Steel made in the late 90's were head and shoulders above this game in a historical context. That said, this is an enjoyable naval combat game, if you can look beyond having unlimited ammuntion, unlimited torpedo reloads, unlimited fuel, or having 20 ships of any type in your fleet even if they are all Hood or Bismark class ships. Oh and you can have them at any time point in the war as long as you have enough xp to open up their build option. (I did enjoy having 4 Shokaku class CV's in my fleet, but perhaps some limitation is needed?)

There are some glaring issues, like carrier aircraft that attack just as well at night, in the rain, as they do on a sunny day and Subs that cannot dive below periscope depth. Attacking bases is over simplified as well, no costal defenses, no minefields, no defending aircraft, (unless a carrier is present) even at the biggest bases level 10.

It is actually funny when you realize your 32 knot cruiser is barely able to out pace your landing craft. Fastest landing craft I have ever seen.

All that said, this is still a fun game that will keep you entertained for for many hours. It would be much better if the devs would add different accuracy level options.

NOTE: Some of the early issues have been repaired, since I wrote this review. There is an option now for no night flying and subs can now dive deep. Bravo to the Devs that keep improving this game.. I Loved the first game and i am loving the second one. 10/10. It's another single-mission DLC. If you've bought at least one for Tropico 5, you know what to expect: a costume that you'll never see, a building that does the same thing as another building, and a sandbox-style single-player mission (which is really what I look forward to most of the time).

Surf's Up features the Dolphinarium as its new building. It provides entertainment as well as being a tourist attraction. That's about it. No unique features: just another entertainment building.

The mission was something I actually enjoyed. It's a Star Wars\Hitchhikers Guide to the Galaxy parody, and respect to the devs for pulling it off. The usual clever, witty, Tropican charm with El Presidente forming an alliance with the doplhins. The DLC introduces a new event chain in exporting fish, building Dolphinariums and so on to gain "moral superiority". The mission itself is an economic\military mission, with the central objective being to build 8 Dolphinariums at inflated prices while defending against the "Grin Pears" eco-terrorist group.

Maybe I've been spoiled by the Waterborne expansion, but the one objective in this mission is a little disappointing, and outside of the frequent military invasions, provides no challenge, as there is no time limit or anything else stopping you from being an economic powerhouse and building eight Dolphinariums once you get the money.

Though I had a breeze playing the mission, as with most DLCs, the meaningless, piecemeal content is a turn-off for an outright purchase, and getting this as a bundle on sale seems to be the thing to do.

https:\/\www.youtube.com\/watch?v= PdORIPotlw. Great app, now able to make my own wallpaper and enjoy them. Also its great to see the amount of designs that are available for editing and the option to make live wallpapers on my own!. I have played many games in my lifetime. GTA, CSGO, FORTNITE, and Garfield racing. All of these, as you must know, are instant classics. However, they all pale in comparison to Cunning Fox. Never have I played a game with so much artistic detail, ineractive and honestly engaging gameplay, and a tear jerking story that questions deep moral instincts for everyone to boot. I can not express with meer words the euphoric feeling I get from playing this game.

1.5\/20. I'm glad I waited to finally get into the game. New races are fantastic. Well voiced and full of charisma. I wish every game had the budget to voice characters as well as this. Get it in the multipack for $10 as opposed to individually to save money. I'm just going to cut and paste this review for all 3 since I really think they all go together.. Have to admit, one of the most amusing games i have ever played. This is something i do everyday at Walmart! This game is literally about my life. 10/10 would fart again!
